

RINGFEDER POWER TRANSMISSION acquires RATHI TRANSPOWER

To all our business partners:

Ringfeder Power Transmission India Private Limited has now fully acquired Rathi Transpower Private Limited in India, and its subsidiaries worldwide, effective 09.November.2023. Following the acquisition, the company will be part of the Ringfeder Power Transmission group, having its headquarters in Germany.

RATHI TRANSPOWER develops, manufactures, and markets a wide range of coupling products and coupling solutions for advanced applications in industrial segments.

RINGFEDER POWER TRANSMISSION is the international market leader in niche markets for drive and damping technology. We develop, manufacture, and supply superior Shaft-Hub Connections, Damping Components, Couplings, Brake Systems and Bearing Housings for highest functionality and durability requirements in a wide range of technology sectors worldwide.

This acquisition expands the product portfolio of Ringfeder Power Transmission and brings it closer to the markets in Asia, through a manufacturing base in India to further expand its footprint in India and in SAARC neighbors. The synergies resulting from this acquisition will not only bring 100+ years of German engineering expertise to our company but will also be a further major step towards a global complete-system provider, covering every aspect of Mechanical Power Transmission.

For the customers of both our companies this means having an exclusive partner for the whole Shaft Couplings and Mechanical Power Transmission System, with a joint sales and marketing network worldwide, and efficient German engineering.

We look forward to continuing our cooperation.
